“We need an independent body to set standards and develop education”
The author states that England could benefit from having an organisation like NIPEC, which provides strategic leadership to support nursing and midwifery practice and education developments: “Now there,” she writes, “is a country that takes nursing seriously.”

Ethical practice in nursing care

What’s at the heart of integrated care?
Everyone’s talking about it but we need to agree on what integration means to have any chance of actually providing it

Call to raise nurses’ profile on ward rounds
Hospitals urged to rethink processes to ensure better multidisciplinary delivery of care
Triggle, N. Nursing Management (Harrow), 2012, vol. 19, no. 7, p. 6

Screening all adult inpatients for risk of blood clots will save lives

Embedding a culture of evidence-based practice
Identification of factors essential to implementing changes in care delivery

Information systems that support effective clinical decision making
Why it is important to record and store relevant health data

Assessment and accreditation system improves patient safety
A ward-based performance assessment framework to assess nursing practices and care has enhanced standards, accountability and leadership
Morris, F. Nursing Management (Harrow), 2012, vol. 19, no. 7, p. 29-33

Prescribing established and new therapies in COPD

Self-harm behaviour: rethinking physical and mental health
Governance (continued)

World class cancer outcomes are at risk
Chief Executive of Cancer Research UK writes that, although the UK has come a long way in reducing cancer mortality, and British research has instigated innovations that have improved survival worldwide, we do not yet have world-class outcomes
Kumar, H. Health Service Journal, 2012, vol. 122, no. 6327, p. 16-17

Tools to identify nutritional risk for older people in the home

Development of guidelines for nurse-led discharge of children presenting with toxic ingestion
A new pathway could save costs and give nurses more responsibility

Reflections on the provision of community palliative care for terminally ill children in Ireland
Quinn, C. Nursing Children and Young People, 2012, vol. 24, no. 9, p. 25-29

Accountability in midwifery practice: Answerable to the profession

“It’s unacceptable that support workers are not regulated”

Leadership

The role of the ward manager in promoting patient safety

Patient safety. How can you ensure everyone plays it safe?
How leaders can influence their organisations to help create a robust safety culture

Leading the way to reform
As managers lack faith in their leadership skills, training opportunities must be increased to ensure the reforms are a success

Stand up and be counted
Strong leadership is essential to underpin compassionate, quality care of the elderly

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Leadership (continued)

Transformational leadership in nursing practice

Workforce

Stormont plan to cut health staff is flawed, says RCN

The image of nursing

Develop ward sister role to improve care

Stop the revolving door
Discussed findings of a recent research study on high levels of nurse turnover

The longer the shifts for hospital nurses, the higher the levels of burnout and patient dissatisfaction
American article, reviewed in Nursing Times, discusses research findings which show that nurses working 12-hour shifts are more likely to experience burnout, job dissatisfaction, and complaints from patients

Professional identity and nursing: contemporary theoretical developments and future research challenges

Workforce

A lack of staff is so often at the root of poor care (editorial)

Scotland’s health secretary orders review of cuts to nurse workforce

Older and wiser

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Workforce (continued)

Fundamental values
On professional qualities that can reduce the risk of neglect

Intellectual disability nursing - responding to health inequity

Policy/Strategy

Challenges to nurse prescribers of a no-antibiotic prescribing strategy for managing self-limiting respiratory tract infections

Prioritise prevention
On Health Service efforts to improve standards of, and guidance relating to, the safeguarding of adults at risk

New standards for hospital food

Education/Development

How can we maximize nursing students’ learning about research evidence and utilization in undergraduate, preregistration programmes? A discussion paper.
Christie, J., Hamill, C. & Power, J. Journal of Advanced Nursing, 2012, vol. 68, no. 12, p. 2789-801 (Note: authors Hamill and Power are Nurse Lecturer and Teaching Fellow, respectively, in QUB School of Nursing and Midwifery)

Teaching and learning: from staff nurse to nurse consultant. Part 4: Clinical teaching

Ready for your first day?
Nursing students advise peers about to embark on their first practice placement
Yardley, L. Nursing Standard, 2012, vol. 27, no. 12, p. 64

Dyscalculia: awareness and student support

Medicines non-adherence: adult literacy and implications for practice

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Education/Development (continued)

How to use web-based information to support people with dementia
Cook, M. Nursing Older People, 2012, vol. 24, no. 9, p. 14-21

Competence-based education: learning disability nursing in Wales

Developing an education framework for stroke

An exploration of undergraduate nursing and physiotherapy students' views regarding education for patient handling

Supporting home enteral tube feeding: some considerations

Food and mood: evidence for diet-related changes in mental health

Mission shows what's possible
Author was given unique insight into British healthcare technology after joining a government-backed trade mission to Boston, Massachusetts

Patient Experience

Comfort to the end
Article on palliative and end-of-life care training programme for staff in nursing homes in NI

Nursing home residents' challenges with socialisation: can nurses help?

Assessing the quality of care delivery at the end of life

Addressing appearance-related distress across clinical conditions

Nursing revolution in vein care

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Patient Experience (continued)

Personalized medicine in multiple sclerosis: hope or reality?

Address the barriers and deliver acute stroke care
Research on stroke cases in Scotland suggests low-cost, hospital-based initiatives could transform outcomes for many

Promoting rehabilitation for stroke survivors

Positioning and early mobilisation in stroke

Brought in from the cold
How homeless adults helped redesign services to better meet their needs

It’s not just about closing the curtains
Promoting dignity comes in many forms
Warnette, M. Nursing Older People, 2012, vol. 24, no. 9, p. 9

Enhancing dementia care
A single tool would help care staff distinguish pain from behavioural symptoms
Smith, D. & Kennerley, D. Nursing Management (Harrow), 2012, vol. 19, no. 7, p. 11

“Words can mask meanings in dementia: listen to understand”

Impact of stigma on people with depression revealed

Beaming help into homes with Skype
A scheme using Skype to boost support for mental health patients has revealed untapped potential of this free technology

Reflecting on the place of birth... and death

One year on: the campaign for better care