Governance

Human Rights and Nursing - RCN Position Statement

Building a house on shifting sand: methodological considerations when evaluating the implementation and adoption of national electronic health record systems
Takian, A. et al. BMC Health Services Research, 2012, vol. 12, April, p.105

Eyes on the prize
Unlocking full benefits of EHR from real-time alerts to powerful research tools

Go with the flow
Improving the flow of patient data through all parts of the NHS is vital to integrating care
Torjesen, I. Health Service Journal Supplement, 26 April, 2012, p. S2-S3

Knowledge gap (Electronic records)
Health Service Journal Supplement, 26 April, 2012, p. S4-S5

‘Ideas are easy to kill’
Experiences from the frontline reveal the obstacles in the journey from eureka moment to practical innovation
Health Service Journal Supplement, 26 April, 2012, p. S22-S23

Measuring data reliability for preventive services in electronic medical records
(Pre-publication information)

Single source of truth
How systems to exploit electronic records are already changing American healthcare, and demonstrating potential uses here
Health Service Journal Supplement, 26 April 2012, p. S16-S17

Poly Implant Prothèse (PIP) silicone breast implants
Review of the actions of the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) and Department of Health Report published 14 May, 2012
Governance (continued)

Whistleblowing and student nurses - are we asking too much?

Regular ward checks raise standards of care

A survey of assessment tools for detecting and managing risk
Phull, J.S. Mental Health Practice, 2012, vol. 15, no. 8, p. 31-33

QIIP savings within the NHS: easier than perceived

What is preventable harm in healthcare? A systematic review of definitions
(Pre-publication information)

A rationale for a clinical supervision database for mental health nursing in the UK

Public Consultation on Regulations to Transpose Organ Directive 2010/53/EU into UK legislation - summary of consultation responses

Hospital costs of nosocomial multi-drug resistant Pseudomonas aeruginosa acquisition
(Pre-publication information) (Research carried out in a hospital in Barcelona)

Leadership

Nursing leadership within the NHS: an evolutionary perspective
Sherring, S. British Journal of Nursing, 2012, vol. 21, no.8, p. 491-502

Take the driving seat. A good coach can help leaders adapt their management style, resulting in better use of their skills.

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Leadership (continued)

Strategic leadership skills for nursing informatics
http://www.nursingtimes.net/Journals/2012/05/11/r/c/o/150512-PrInnov-info.pdf

Are you confidently competent?
Chase, Linda K. Nursing Management, May 2012 vol. 43, Supplement, p. 50-53
Article on nurse manager leadership development (American); describes the Nurse Manager Competency Instrument (NMCI), developed to measure the competencies required for the role.

New power generation
To improve quality, leaders must focus on relationships that facilitate change.

Workforce

Frontline First - RCN Congress 2012 update
This publication indicates that more than 61,000 posts across the UK are at risk of being cut. In Northern Ireland, where there has been a 2% decrease in the number of nurses since December 2009, a further reduction of 500 posts is forecast.
http://royalnursing.3cdn.net/be9008ab9a029c5a0d_2am6btynk.pdf

Ward staffing pressures leave vital care undone
Ford, S. Nursing Times, 1 May, 2012 (available via HONNI)
According to the latest subset of survey results from the landmark RN4CAST study into Europe’s nursing workforce, a “staggering” amount of vital care is left undone by nurses in England at the end of shifts because of staffing pressures. The study highlights a “clear relationship” between the number of incomplete tasks and the number of registered nurses per patient.

‘Listen to what nurses are saying about staffing’
Middleton, J. Nursing Times, 1 May, 2012 (available via HONNI)
Unison report reveals that most nurses believe in setting minimum nurse to patient ratios.
http://www.nursingtimes.net/5044354.article?referrer=e18

Achieving safe staffing for older people in hospital
Hayes, N. & Ball, J. Nursing Older People, 2012, vol. 24, no. 4, p. 20-25

Nurse-to-patient ratios must increase to improve safety
Duffin, C. Nursing Older People, 2012, vol. 24, no. 4, p. 6-7

Project to expand diversity in the nursing workforce

Advanced practice nursing role development: factor analysis of a modified role delineation tool

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Workforce (continued)

Addressing safeguarding concerns through better communication

How to design a doable job
Staff are happiest and most productive when their jobs are ‘doable’...

The next step for independent nurse prescribers

CfWI (Centre for Workforce Intelligence) Nursing and midwifery quarterly newsletter - issue 2

Prevention of suicide in Northern Ireland

Living with long term conditions. A policy framework. DHSSPS, April 2012 http://www.dhsspsni.gov.uk/living-longterm-conditions.pdf

The power of information: Putting all of us in control of the health and care information we need. DoH, May 2012
Ten-year information strategy for the NHS, public health and social care, including a commitment that patients will be able to view their GP records online by 2015.

Can mental health policy ever deliver its objectives?

A system-wide challenge for UK food policy

The man who wants to abolish the NHS
Mark Littlewood, director-general of the Institute of Economic Affairs, speaking at an HR Forum in May, suggested that the existing NHS system should be scrapped in favour of a Singaporean savings-based model, claiming that this would enable “genuine patient and customer control”.
http://blog.peoplemanagement.co.uk/2012/05/hr-reporter-the-man-who-wants-to-abolish-the-nhs/?utm_medium=email&utm_source=cipd&utm_campaign=pmdaily_240512&utm_content=comment_1
Policy/Strategy (continued)

Back to the future: 10 years of European health reforms

Education/Development

Escaping the ivory tower: emancipation of the modern clinical academic Glasper, A. British Journal of Nursing, 2012, vol. 21, no.8, p. 496-497

Nurses’ use of online health information in medical wards

Quality clinical placements for undergraduate nursing students: a cross-sectional survey of undergraduates and supervising nurses

Taking charge: front-line nurse leadership development

Changing the game; some thoughts on future healthcare demands, technology, nursing and interprofessional education
Garrett, B. M. Nurse Education in Practice, 2012, vol. 12, no. 4, p. 179-181

'The placement was probably the tipping point' - narratives of recently discontinued students

Student, tutor and staff nurse perceptions of the clinical learning environment

Numeracy skills of undergraduate entry level nurse, midwife and pharmacy students
Arkell, S. & Rutter, P. M. Nurse Education in Practice, 2012, vol. 12, no. 4, p. 198-203

Implementation and evaluation of peer assessment of clinical skills for first year student nurses

Research integrity on the Horizon

What can virtual patient simulation offer mental health nursing education?

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Education/Development (continued)

Nurse-led delivery of specialist supportive care for bipolar disorder: a randomized controlled trial

Patient Experience

Factors that promote and hinder joint and integrated working between health and social care services, SCIE Briefing No. 41, May 2012
This research briefing focuses on jointly-organised services for people with mental health problems, and older people; it provides an overview of evidence about the effectiveness of different models of working between health and social care services, as increased demand for such services, plus reduced expenditure, point to the need for greater collaboration.

Integration: implications for people who use services, practitioners, organisations and researchers
SCIE - At a glance No. 57, March 2012
Discusses and summarises the implications of integration for people who use services.
“Outcomes defined by people who use services may differ from policy and practice imperatives, and are a crucial aspect of understanding the effectiveness of integrated services.”

Community-based post-stroke service provision and challenges: a national survey of managers and inter-disciplinary healthcare staff in Ireland.
(Pre-publication information)

The importance and urgency of addressing patient safety globally

Effects of being a patient on student development

Cancer Research study shows importance of patient helpline services
Nursing Times, 14 May, 2012

Synergy: the unique relationship between nurses and patients
Gray, M. T. Nurse Education in Practice, 2012, vol. 12, no. 4, p. e30-e30

They’re in your hands.
Nurses should never forget the privileged position they have in patients’ lives
Whitewood, K. Mental Health Practice, 2012, vol. 15, no. 8, p. 9-10

Please note that NIPEC is not responsible for the content of external internet sites
Patient Experience (continued)

A dignified approach to improving the patient experience: promoting privacy, dignity and respect through collaborative training

Get well sooner
An enhanced recovery pathway at a London trust has led to benefits, including earlier discharge for patients.

More time for patients: digital pens for clinicians

Hard and difficult times - the provision of good midwifery care

Survey of patient and public perceptions of electronic health records for healthcare, policy and research: study protocol

Assessing accuracy of an electronic provincial medication repository

International Practice Development Journal (IPDJ)
Volume 2, number 1, published May 2012
(Guest Editorial by Brendan McCormack, Institute of Nursing Research, University of Ulster)
http://fons.org/library/journal/volume2-issue1 (To access online, you need to become a Friend of FoNS; free registration at http://www.fons.org/login-zone/registration-form.aspx)

NHS Institute Alert, May 2012
Guest editorial - Raising the bar on patient safety: the journey to ‘harmfree’ care - by Maxine Power, National Improvement Advisor and QIPP Safe Care National Workstream lead at the Department of Health; plus articles on, for example, raising quality whilst reducing cost, learning from improvement science, inspiring innovation, increasing productivity, building leadership capacity to deliver QIPP.